Six emigrating families have put themselves up for a challenge.

Only thing is ... they don't know it!

They've each volunteered to keep their own video diary for an emigration documentary. What they haven't been told is that they will be secretly judged at every stage in their adventure by a panel of migration experts — and ultimately by YOU.

Watch them over a period of one year as they experience the ups and downs, joys and setbacks of starting a new life. Share their roller coaster of emotions. Then at the end vote for the family you regard as the "Champion Emigrants" — the ones with the best attitude; the best chance of succeeding as migrants.

This is a "moving abroad" documentary like no other — intended primarily to help others contemplating a new life abroad. Forget those heavily stage-managed programmes that are now two a penny on the telly. This video is made by the migrants themselves ... without directors shouting "action" every five minutes. It is TRUE reality — and all the more compulsive for it.
